It has been over a decade since the publication of the landmark Institute of Medicine report To Err Is Human: Building a Safer Health System. Yet, despite many efforts, preventable medical errors still occur at very high rates. What are the barriers to improving patient safety and what can be done to stimulate innovation and implementation?

Eli & Edythe Broad CIRM Center, BCC 101
USC’s Health Sciences Campus
1425 San Pablo Street
Los Angeles, CA 90089

11:30AM: Check-in and lunch
12-1PM: Panel discussion
1-2PM: Q&A and networking

It has been over a decade since the publication of the landmark Institute of Medicine report To Err Is Human: Building a Safer Health System. Yet, despite many efforts, preventable medical errors still occur at very high rates. What are the barriers to improving patient safety and what can be done to stimulate innovation and implementation?

Please join us as we bring together a panel of experts including Keck Medical Center of USC’s Chief Medical Officer Dr. Stephanie Hall; CHLA Director of Critical Care Services Nancy Blake; USC health behavioral economics expert Dr. Jason Doctor; and entrepreneur and CEO of Hyginex Shiva Swami.

RSVP: http://bit.ly/1bFefkb